Welcome to Seattle!

Since it made its Hollywood debut in 1933's Tugboat Annie, Seattle has been featured in hundreds of films and TV shows. You may be surprised to find that some of your favorite films were made right here in the Pacific Northwest.

Spend the day tracking the footsteps of the stars as this map guides you to many of the locations immortalized in films like Sleepless in Seattle and It Happened at the World's Fair. Whether you're hungry for a bite to eat, want to enjoy the great outdoors or soak up some Seattle culture, you'll find it here.

And, you never know, while you're exploring the streets of Seattle you may just come across filming in progress. Have fun!

— Mayor Gregory J. Nickels

Outside Seattle

Locations in Washington State

Do the towns of "Twin Peaks" or "Cicely, Alaska" ring a bell? If so, it could be because Seattle isn't the only place in the Northwest made famous by Hollywood productions. For a trip outside the city, visit one of the many towns featured in film and TV here in Washington State.

- Cathlamet Men of Honor; Snow Falling on Cedars
- Coupeville Practical Magic
- Deception Pass State Park The Postman; Snow Falling on Cedars
- North Bend/Snoqualmie Twin Peaks; The Vanishing
- Port Townsend An Officer and a Gentleman; Enough; Snow Falling on Cedars
- Roslyn "Cicely, Alaska" Northern Exposure
- San Juan Islands Five Easy Pieces; Free Willy 2; Practical Magic
- Soap Lake Smoke Signals
- Spokane Benny and Joon
- Tacoma 10 Things I Hate About You; The Hand That Rocks the Cradle; Prefontaine
- Concrete This Boy's Life
- Boundary Dam / Metaline Falls The Postman

"The Real" Twin Peaks

Visit the real "Twin Peaks." Travel just 30 minutes east of Seattle and you can visit the "Great Northern Hotel" or enjoy a piece of cherry pie and a cup of coffee at the "Double R Diner." Several locations in and around Snoqualmie and North Bend were used in the making of David Lynch's Twin Peaks TV series and movie.

- "Big Ed's Gas Farm" – Stonecroft Gallery, Preston
- "Double R Diner" – Twede's Café, North Bend
- "Great Northern Hotel" - Salish Lodge, Snoqualmie
- "Packard Mill" - Weyerhaeuser Mill, Snoqualmie
- "Road House" – Colonial Inn, Fall City
- "Twin Peaks High School" - Mt. Si High School, Snoqualmie
- "Sheriff's Station" - Weyerhaeuser Office
- "White Tails Falls" – Snoqualmie Falls, Snoqualmie
- "Twin Peaks" – Mt. Si

A "Twin Peaks" map is available at the Alpine Blossom Shoppe in North Bend.

Lake Union houseboat that "Sam" and "Jonah" called home.

Sleepless in Seattle Tour

In the early 1990s "Dr. Marcia Fieldstone" drew Meg Ryan's and just about everyone else's attention to Seattle when she referred to Tom Hanks as Sleepless in Seattle. The majority of this classic Nora Ephron film was made here in Seattle; even that oh-so-romantic scene at the end that you thought was filmed in New York.

In order of appearance:

- 11. Athenian Inn – Rob Reiner gives "Sam" a lesson in dating and dessert.
- 26. Dome Room/Arctic Building – "Annie" and "Walter" spend New Year's Eve dancing here as Sam watches fireworks over the lake.
- 51. Lake Union – Home to "Sam" and "Jonah's" houseboat.
- 58. Alki Beach – "Annie" watches as "Sam" and "Jonah" spend the day playing football.
- 64. Sand Point/Magnuson Park – The Empire State Building in Seattle? The famous landmark was rebuilt on a soundstage in this Northwest park.
- 78. Westlake Avenue N – "All I could say was 'hello'..." "Annie" sees "Sam" with another woman from across this busy street.
- 4. Pike Place Market – "Sam's" girlfriend buys fresh ingredients for a home-cooked meal, much to "Jonah's" dismay.
- 6. Seattle-Tacoma International Airport – If they had only known... "Sam" spots "Annie" at Gate N2.
